Guns for American Merchant Vessels Considered Likely

Proposed to Supplement Orders to U. S. Navy to Shoot First

Washington, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The arming of American merchant ships was described in authoritative quarters today as a step likely to be proposed by the administration, supplementing President Roosevelt's orders to the navy to shoot first at axis warcraft in American defense waters.

Discussion of such a move intensified with news of the torpedoing of an American-owned freighter carrying lumber to Iceland—an attack which occurred Thursday morning but which was not announced until yesterday.

The arming of merchantmen was reported to have been discussed briefly at a White House conference when Roosevelt gave congressional leaders a preview of his Thursday night radio address. One legislator said he came away with the impression that it was only a matter of time until the suggestion would be put into concrete form.

Such a step, it was pointed out, would require congressional repeal—or at least revision—of the neutrality act, since that law specifically prohibits American commercial vessels from carrying other than small arms.

Obtaining Guns Problem

Another problem would be to obtain the necessary guns, in view of the keen demand for such weapons by the United States army and navy, and by the British as well.

The latest reported attack on an American-owned vessel took place even before the president told the world that he had ordered the navy to defend shipping against "the rattlesnakes of the Atlantic"—nazi submarines and raiders.

The state department said the navy had learned that the 1,700-ton freighter Montana, of Panamanian registry and with a foreign crew, had been torpedoed off the coast of Greenland, at latitude 63 degrees 40 minutes north, longitude 35 degrees 50 minutes west.

An airplane—described as not an American aircraft—was reported to have seen the torpedoing and watched the 26-man crew take to lifeboats. The state department said all hands were believed to be safe.

Few details of the affair were released. Whether the torpedo attack sunk the vessel was undisclosed. Since the ship carried 1,500,000 feet of lumber, consigned to the Icelandic government, there was some speculation here that she might still be afloat.

Former Danish Vessel

The Montana, formerly called the Paula, was one of the Danish ships which lay idle for months in American ports before being requisitioned by the Maritime Commission and placed in operation. The neutrality act forbids American ships and sailors from entering

Revenue Bill's Changes Okayed by Joint Group

Washington, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Reliable congressional informants said today a joint conference committee had accepted virtually all senate changes in the record-breaking revenue bill, including amendments estimated to add $52,800,000 to the tax burden on corporations.

The conference committee, appointed to adjust differences between the senate and house versions of the revenue measure, was reported by one source to have written a compromise bill estimated by congressional experts at $3,550,000,000, which is $33,900,000, less than the estimated senate total and $333,600,000 more than the expected revenue under the house measure. However, another legislator expressed the opinion that the compromise version would raise slightly more than the $3,583,900,000 senate figure.

To Keep Details Secret

The conference group, which decided to keep detailed results of its meeting secret until Monday, was reported previously to have accepted a senate amendment reducing personal income tax exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $500 to $750 for single individuals.

The house was expected to consider the compromise revenue bill Monday, and leaders hoped they could rush it through that chamber in time for final senate approval before nightfall.

Young GOP Head Raps Roosevelt's Foreign Policies

Annual State Meeting Is Opened Today at Springfield

By ROBERT HEWETT

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 13.—(AP) Criticism of the Roosevelt administration's handling of the national defense program was sounded today at the annual state convention of Young Republicans. Timothy W. Swain of Peoria, Young Republican club state president, opened the convention sessions with the charge that the administration had "clogged up and bogged down" defense industry.

"If the young people of this country are to make sacrifices that are being required of them," Swain declared in a prepared address, "when is the new deal going to start stamping out the inefficiencies and bungling of our national defense program?"

Apparently the new dealers think that mere appropriations of money are the magic wands of achievement.

Similar criticism of the defense program was expected from the resolutions committee, appointed by the board of governors and headed by John W. Timm, Chicago.

No Election Fight

The convention—which is not faced with an election fight this year because Swain and other officers were elected in 1940 for two-year terms—took on the atmosphere of a political rally with Congressman - at - Large William G. Stratton of Morris becoming the center of a boomlet for nomination as state treasurer next spring.

Stratton, 27 years old and a member of the Young Republican club, was reported include on a 1942 Republican state ticket with some sources said was taking shape with the backing of Governor Green and other administration leaders. Stratton was scheduled to address the convention later today.

Old and young Republican leaders here for the convention heard reports that Governor Green plans to support U. S. Senator C. Wayland Brooks for renomination at the head of the G. O. P. ticket. The same reports had Stratton, son of the late Secretary of State William J. Stratton, on the ticket for state treasurer succeeding Warren Wright, who is forbidden by the constitution from seeking re-election.

Ben Berve Is Mentioned

At least two other candidates for treasurer were mentioned, however. Richard Yates Rowe of Jacksonville, a member of the state central committee, and Republican State Chairman Ben Berve of Rochelle were reported

Thirteen Beauties Chosen for Finals at Armory Monday

Represent Like Number of Cities Entered in Great Contest

Thirty-nine beautiful young women from 13 Rock river valley towns, appearing last evening behind the footlights of the Dixon theater, completely captivated their audience of close to 1,200 northern Illinoisans.

The young women were, of course, semi-finalists from Lee, Ogle, Whiteside, La Salle and Bureau counties seeking the right to participate in final competition for the title of Rock River Valley Beauty Queen, to be decided at the Hollywood ball in the Dixon Armory Monday evening. Thirteen—including Miss Glea Rutherford of Dixon—were successful; the others will serve as ladies in waiting.

Last evening's event had just about everything to make a highly successful show. And, accordingly, the audience which saw it did not choose to "sit on its hands" but let itself go, when asked to contribute its share of the decision-making.

Basis of Judging

The contest was planned primarily by the Dixon Lions club to select the most beautiful young woman in the Rock river valley—and judges throughout the preliminary and semi-final competition have never lost sight of that fact by allowing popularity of various candidates to sway their decision. In addition to beauty, selections were based upon two other additional qualifications—personality and poise.

Applause from the audience has carried 20 per cent of the decisions, and findings of a jury of three judges, the remaining 80 per cent. Composing the jury of judges last evening were: Irving Yergin, representative of Warner Bros. Studios; Mrs. Edward Powell of Hillsboro, Ohio; and Leon Rappe of Rockford, until recently of Paris, France.

The contest got underway about 8:45 o'clock, when Elwin Wadsworth, committee member, introduced Harry Bates, president of the Lions club, who welcomed the audience.

Swank Job of Modeling

The contestants, who did a swank job of modeling new formal modes and smart coiffures, were introduced three-by-three in a brief preliminary revue, before the judging began. Assisting at the loud speaker during introduction of the candidates at various times during the evening were Les Hinkle, Hal Mateer, Don McMahon and Mr. Wadsworth, committee members, who presented the young women from the towns in which they had conducted preliminary contests during the past few weeks.

Mr. Wadsworth announced that approximately 600 young women registered for preliminary competition, and interest remains at a high pitch, as the field narrows to 13 for final judging on Monday evening. In addition to reigning as Beauty Queen at the Hollywood Ball, Monday evening's winner is also entitled to a free trip to Hollywood.

Participating Towns

Participating towns, which have co-operated wholeheartedly from the first, include Amboy, Ashton, Dixon, Franklin Grove, Mendota, Morrison, Mt. Morris, Oregon, Polo, Princeton, Prophetstown, Rochelle and Sterling. Three contestants, selected earlier in preliminary competition, represented each town.

The 13 finalists chosen last evening, whose interests and professions range from high school and college classroom studies, to office work and homemaking, include:

Amboy—Helen Branigan, North Central college (Naperville) freshman; Doris Eckburg and Loraine Lehman, ladies in waiting.

Ashton—Natalie Chapman, Ashton high school senior; Marjorie Linscott and Louise Paddock, ladies in waiting.

Dixon—Glea Rutherford; Rose Sterling (Mrs. Robert Sterling,

Contestants Seeking Beauty Queen Title Reach Semi-Finals

Paroled Convict Returns Here to Clear His Name

Al Lucas, 62, who was sentenced by Judge Oscar E. Heard in the Lee county circuit court on June 6, 1919, to serve a life sentence in the Joliet penitentiary for his alleged participation in the murder of George Bush, negro, in the Northwestern railroad yards at Nelson about 6:30 o'clock on the evening of Dec. 6, 1918, walked into the Lee county circuit court today, then went to the chambers of Judge George C. Dixon, in an effort to rehabilitate himself. Lucas' sole ambition is to obtain a complete pardon, then proceed to establish the fact that he had no part in the Nelson murder.

British Claim Bulk of Convoy Under Attacks of Subs Reaches Port

Today's News of War Summarized from A. P. Reports

London, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Battered by two U-boat attacks and an air assault in a raging storm, and just missing a fight with a German surface raider, the bulk of a British convoy in the Atlantic nevertheless reached port with the loss of but eight ships, the Admiralty said today.

Three ships of the convoy were sunk by torpedoes and four by bombs. One ship damaged by a bomb later foundered in the gale, it was said.

The admiralty, highly praising the conduct of the men of the convoy, gave credit in large measure for bringing the majority of the craft through the hazardous situations to Lt. Commander G. A. Thring, DSO, in command of the senior escort ships.

NAZI CLAIMS DIFTER

(By The Associated Press)
The battle of the Atlantic surged toward a new crescendo today as Germany reported a continuing U-boat attack on a Britain-bound convoy had sunk four more merchantmen and three escorting warships and Washington quartermasters predicted that American cargo craft soon would be armed.

Army Complaint Letters Blamed on "Outsiders"

Struthers, O., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Unidentified "subversive organizations" were accused by an army intelligence officer today of writing "complaint letters" in an effort to create an impression of unrest and dissatisfaction in army training camps.

Capt. Alfred G. Karger of Fort Hayes asserted in a speech prepared for a Junior Chamber of Commerce defense rally that the organizations operated principally in army maneuver territory.

"These trouble makers," Karger said, "follow the troops along their line of march to their field of maneuver for the purpose of dropping notes on the highways outside of towns through which the troops pass."

Notes Are Disguised

"These notes are written so that they appear to come from individual soldiers or groups of soldiers and are written x x x to indicate a severe disaffection on the part of soldiers regarding conditions in the army x x x."

The notes often are picked up by "good citizens who are uninformed as to this vicious means of spreading untrue propaganda," Karger added.

SMALL HOMES • STORES • APARTMENTS • MODERNIZATION

by PAUL T. HAAGEN, A.I.A.

Decorative Wallpapers

Care Required for Sake of Harmony in Rooms

By PAUL T. HAAGEN

The use of paper for wall covering is much older than the United States. Many of the papers used today are reproductions of the old country from Europe and from China, which were used in the homes of our colonial ancestors.

Wall paper has a great variety of designs and colors which, when utilized in a carefully thought out decorative scheme, will give great individuality, originality and charm to the walls of a room.

Two Methods Good

There are two general ways of treating a wall with wall paper—one as a decorative, the second as a background. If decoration is desired, there are many patterns and colors from which to choose. If a background is required against which pictures and furniture will show to the best advantage, the plainer, simpler papers of one tone or very small pattern should always be chosen.

The paper to be used should be carefully chosen, bearing in mind the purpose for which the room is to be used. Scale—that is the relation of the design to the size of the room—enters largely into the successful results of a wall paper selection and a small room should have a plain paper or one with a small pattern. In the larger room the scale or pattern should be larger.

Color Necessary

Color is essential, and the small rooms requires softer, quieter tones while in the larger rooms the shades and colors may be bolder and more positive.

Formality or the informal note also should be considered as well as the type of furniture, the color of the rugs and hangings. Try to secure for the entire room a harmonious entity that good color, proper scale and good design will bring about.

SHUT-OFF VALVES

Householders have had unfortunate experiences with frozen pipes that lead to an outside faucet. That condition can be remedied by installing in the water supply a shut-off valve by which you may turn off the water supply at the first signs of freezing weather.

Shut-off valves should also be at the foot of every cold or hot water riser. So if any fixture or pipe is in need of repairs the water supply to that particular unit may be shut off till a plumber arrives to make the necessary repairs. The installation of shut-off valves overcomes the inconvenience of shutting down the entire system till one part has been repaired.

MODERNIZE ELECTRICALLY

Complete modernization of the electric wiring and fixtures should be part of any home modernization plan. Outlets are an important part of home equipment and should be installed where needed. Wiring and fixtures quite definitely date a house. One ten years old is certainly out of date from the standpoint of new, modern electrical equipment.

SAGGING JOISTS

If the joists in your house are defective or sagging, they may be reinforced by spiking, a two-inch plank on one side or, if desired to both sides.

This additional reinforcing will give greater rigidity to the joists and will greatly assist in preventing uneven floors and squeaks.

ATTRACTIVE AND INEXPENSIVE

CONSERVATIVE STYLE

Patterned after the conventional hall type of house this plan places the staircase at the rear which gives a better arrangement of rooms in the second floor. Fine generous rooms are obtained with cross ventilation.—Robert L. Stevenson, Architect.

Good Building

Pays Over the Years

By PAUL T. HAAGEN

Usually when a man plans a home, he thinks he must build as large a house as this money will buy—and he wants all the appliances, equipment and conveniences built in. The total sum he has to invest seems rather adequate to him, and he feels it will cover all these things.

But with labor and building material costs to consider, the money will go only so far and many times it is a difficult task to determine the things that he absolutely needs as distinguished from what he wants, considering what his pocketbook will afford.

The important thing to consider first is well-built masonry walls, sturdy frame construction, sound and attractive doors, a first-class paint job and good plumbing and heating installation. The true test of a well-built house is the fundamentals built within the walls and out of sight. Here it may be a temptation to economize. It is poor economy to put in poor construction in these concealed places. Far better to temporarily forego some of the mechanical helps and appliances or decorative effects, and put the money into sound basic materials—the foundations, the rough plumbing, insulation, plaster base and the heating. This will minimize repairs and upkeep. The other requirements may be supplied later when finances permit, and it will pay in the long run to operate on this basis.

Army and navy requirements for canned fruits and vegetables from the 1941 pack will equal about 8.3 per cent of the total 1940 pack for vegetables and 4.9 per cent the 1940 pack for fruits.

Drowning victims in the U. S. in 1940 totaled 6,300.

Home Investment Sound

By PAUL T. HAAGEN

Throughout the last few years of economic depression, the old and fundamental soundness of careful investment in a home and lands has again been enunciated. Amidst the chaotic deflation of almost every known type of investment, money placed in a good home which was not purchased at an excessive cost, has continued to return, year in and year out, its full measure of dollar-for-dollar value.

Money saved through investment in a home in which the owner expects to live is money placed beyond the reach of any future economic upheaval. Money buys a service which is needed throughout the life of its owner.

If one has ever thought of the desirability of owning his own home and has failed to make the dream come true in the past, do your decisive thinking on the subject today, because existing circumstances demand it. Never since the American settlers first built their homes of logs has it been so easy, from a financial standpoint, for the average family to acquire a good new home on terms which they can afford.

Unusual conditions, peculiar to the period in which we are living today and which are unlikely to be repeated within a generation, have produced this situation.

INSULATION OF ATTIC SIMPLE

The insulation of an attic floor may be accomplished in several ways. Stiff or rigid board sheets of insulation material may be laid over the attic floor and then covered with another floor. A loose material that has a high insulation value may be poured between the ceiling joist or blanket form of insulation material may be fitted in between the joists. If there is no floor in the attic you may lay one of the rigid boards directly on top of the ceiling joists. Such insulation will save a great deal of heat loss through the attic and roof.

Accidents kill more persons between the ages of 3 and 24 years than die of disease.

GARAGES NOW PART OF EVERY HOME

In today's home, the garage has assumed much greater importance than in former years when folks did not have so many cars and few homes are now built that do not have some sort of a garage in connection with the house and designed in harmony with the architectural design.

Garages may be detached, built in, or attached to the house. In every case their arrangement and design should be in close relation to the home. To make a garage attractive and to fit in well requires much skill, for when the garage is built in connection with one of the stylistic houses, it introduces a new element in the design that was not found in the original houses from which the design of your house may be adapted. Large doors, as needed for the garage, oftentimes overbalance the proportions, delicacy and refinements of the details and when two doors are introduced into the design, then the trouble is doubled.

It would seem that garages should be fireproof, for the potential fire risk in the garage is great. If possible, have a fire wall between the house and the garage and a fire or metal clad door that will retard the fire travel. A fireproof ceiling is desirable. In a masonry house this is a relatively simple matter.

Overhead doors are much in demand. They not only are easy to operate but when the doors are opened they are out of the way. Many types of doors are on the market, all of which will operate satisfactorily.

A water faucet is desirable and well worth the cost of installation. It is a practical feature when cleaning the floor or when washing the car.

I think the floor should drain from back to front with the floor pitched so that the water will drain off through the door opening. I do not advocate floor drains, as the drains will stop up with waste and dirt and collect grease and oil.

A great convenience is a closet near or in the garage where robes, blankets and other automobile accessories may be stored.

CAULKING

Much cold strikes through to a house around the wooden door and window frames of masonry houses. This can be remedied by removing the brick moulding on the outside of the frame and caulking the joint between frame and the masonry. Oakum is usually used for caulking the frames.

National income for May amounted to $7,901,000,000 as compared to $7,183,000,000 for April.

This house is traditional in its conception. On a larger scale it would resemble a New England farmhouse, but here it is well adapted to a suburban setting. Although serving as a one-story house here, this dwelling has an unfinished second floor which may be developed as the needs and means of the family grow. A two car attached garage gives the house added storage space and the appearance of added size. Located in the Midwest, this property is valued at $7,500 and was financed with a Federal Housing Administration insured mortgage of $6,200. Average monthly payments on a 20-year mortgage of this amount, exclusive of taxes and hazard insurance, total about $39. The cost of a similar property will vary in other localities.

MIRROR DOORS

Most women will welcome a long length mirror and there is always a place in every home where such a mirror may be placed.

A door is a good place to put such a mirror and a special door is not needed for a long mirror may be put directly over any door by fitting a wooden moulding around the mirror and attaching to the door. The moulding is made with a groove to fit over the edge of the mirror and any carpenter will be able to fit one in place.

Equipment Being Taken From Flood-Wrecked Harrisburg Mine

Harrisburg, Ill., Sept. 13—(AP)—The Sahara Coal Company's No. 3 mine—a million dollar colliery which 1937 flood waters converted into a foul-smelling hole—now is giving up valuable equipment needed in the national defense program.

In one of the most extensive salvage operations in the history of the state's coal industry, four coal-loading machines have been removed from the mine. It is probable that six more loading machines, coal cutting machines, rails and copper from the power transmission system may be salvaged.

Before even one item was recovered, months of labor were required to sink a new shaft into the mine workings. The old shaft and much of the 3,000 acres of honeycomb workings still are flooded with millions of gallons of water despite the pumping of approximately three billion gallons with pumps furnished by the state.

The new shaft, driven on a 15 degree angle and approximately 700 feet long, was started approximately one-half mile east of the old shaft. It has become a medium by which the flood damage could be surveyed for the first time.

When the workmen reached the mine workings, they encountered an atmosphere which was described as "so oppressive you could almost feel it lay its hands on you."

Gas, the odor of rotting wood, the acid smell of chemical-laden water after four and a half years of stagnation, all these were reduced by air circulation so the salvage operations could proceed.

In some areas rotting timbers, cave-ins and water itself prevented exploration but other entries and rooms were found to have escaped the flood. In the latter coal cars appeared as though they had been loaded only yesterday; machinery responded to electricity, undamaged.

This machinery and other equipment hidden by rockfalls of boulder proportions will be removed in the company's attempt to reduce the heavy toll exacted by the flood.

Meantime, strangers still marvel that the Ohio river could crawl out of its banks and almost overnight destroy the working place of 300 miners 22 miles away.

Presbyterian Church Notes

Rev. Frank A. Campbell, pastor, "What and Where is the Kingdom of God?"

The Presbyterian church opened last Sunday after a five-week vacation. The large dining room was completely filled with people. While some were disappointed at not being in the main auditorium, there was a homesickness about the downstairs meeting and the nearness to the speaker that made it a very pleasing service.

The pastor told how the General Assembly of the church has chosen "Thy Kingdom Come" as the theme for the thinking of the church for this year, and showed how this sense of God as the ruler and sustainer of the universe is the Christian answer to the spirit of despair and futility which seems so prevalent in the world today.

Next Sunday the sermon theme will be "What and Where is the Kingdom of God?" The pastor believes he has a message in which thoughtful people will be interested, and those who hear it may be a little startled at the answer to the question.

We hope to be in our newly decorated auditorium next Sunday, but if not, we will again use the dining room as we did last Sunday.

Sunday school is at 9:45. There are classes for all, and parents are asked to co-operate in seeing that their children come under the influence of this bit of Christian training, for we know it is all the religious training most of them will ever get.

Advance Guard of Legion Gathers in Milwaukee for Meet

530 Proposals Before Resolutions Body for Deliberation

Milwaukee, Sept. 13—(AP)—The American Legion resolutions committee met Friday to consider 530 proposals, many of them dealing with the international problem, as advance business sessions of the national convention opened.

The twenty-third annual gathering of veterans of the World War is still two days away—opening Sunday with religious and patriotic services—but a vanguard of the army of 100,000 expected delegates and visitors was already in the city.

The gay spirit of the convention was evident as Milwaukee blossomed out in bunting, flags and emblems. There was an undertone of seriousness, however.

National Commander Milo J. Warner, in his welcoming remarks, will inform the Legion that it must "face courageously the problems and trials which lie ahead."

The same serious note was evident in advance committee reports which called for all-out sacrifice in the defense effort and assailed the totalitarian powers as "no better than international bandits."

Legion officials announced that worries over housing the multitude of guests were solved.

Milwaukee breweries exemplified the city's famed gemutlichkeit (good fellowship and hospitality) as they put finishing touches to block-long outdoor beer gardens where beer will be served free to the visitors.

Downtown streets were partially blocked by thousands of seats erected for next Tuesday's 12-hour parade.

Mrs. Louis J. Lemstra of Clinton, Ind., national president of the Legion Auxiliary, joined Warner and other officials here yesterday. The two candidates to succeed her—Mrs. P. I. Dixon, of Americus, Ga., and Mrs. Mark Murrill of Scituate, Mass.—began friendly campaigns from adjoining quarters of the same hotel.

QUOTE AND UNQUOTE

The manual of information sent out by the University of Wisconsin lists Don Miller as follows: "Put 210 pounds on a 6-foot-3-inch frame, add tremendous speed, throw in some bull strength, and you have a right half back. Miller, the pride of Dixon, Ill., has all these. A two letter winning senior, 1941 might well be the season for him to really roll."

HERRINGTON HERE SUNDAY

John Herrington, WBBM radio announcer, has switched his plans slightly to be in Dixon Sunday instead of Monday—he said last night on his "Man on the Street" broadcast. Herrington is a pal of Joe E. Brown and will interview the movie actor-sportsman here.

ROCK FALLS WINS OPENER

Rock Falls, 1941 grid champions of the Rock River conference, last night defeated Pekin, 14 to 12, with a last quarter drive. Capt. Leo Hunsberger of Rock Falls scored first with a 35-yard run in the second period and Spencer passed to R. McMurphy for the extra point. In the last quarter the Rockets staged a long drive which was climaxed by Bud Garhart, fullback, pushing eight yards for the winning touchdown and Hunsberger place-kicked the extra point. Looks like the Rockets are heaven-bound again.

MEETS THE PHILLIES

Ward Miller was in Chicago Thursday on a business trip and had the pleasure of meeting the entire Philadelphia Phillies baseball team. He spent some time reminiscing with Hans Lobert, one of the Philly bosses, with whom he was associated in the days when Ward played in the National circuit, and also had the pleasure of meeting the other members of the team who were enjoying an off day in the Windy City.

AT THE MIKE

OPINION

Bobby Underwood, former Drake university grid star, would like to see the time when the football rules are changed to permit a team to pick up the second half right where it left off. For instance, if a team were to push to the two yard line at gun-time, Bob thinks it is a good idea to start there at the second half instead of kicking off as at the start of the game. This ruling is being experimented with in several localities already and may be adopted some day.

"PENALTY" ON OFFICIALS

There is nothing in the rule book to penalize the officials—but Freddie Parker, Leland Stromborg and Jim Trees should have been called for "offside" in the sophomore game here last night between Oregon and Dixon. The three heads reputedly better than one all forgot to switch goals at the end of the first period. Of course this game of football is just getting underway again after a summer recess.

"BOY SCOUTS"

The place was populated with scouts last night when Oregon defeated Dixon. From the Rock River conference there were: Coach Wendell Schrader of Mt. Morris and Bill Helms of Rochelle, Coach Rufus Dewitz of Mendota from the North Central conference and Bud Terhune of Sterling. Dick Smith of Sterling was also checking up.

TYING KNOTS

Coach Lindell—who used to take nips on the water bottle as he sat on the bench watching his Dixon football teams—has a new doodling process to quiet his nerves. Last night he was tying more knots than a Boy Scout has in his repertoire.

IT'S A DATE

Tommie Richards who leaves Tuesday to resume his studies at Notre Dame, has a date to meet John Moore, his former Dixon football team mate, in New York City on Nov. 1 when the Irish play the Army gridders. Tom had a letter from "Pete" the other day and the latter declares he's out for football and feels O. K. after his recent operation on his trick knee.

NORTH BANK NEWS

Some fishermen may go north seeking prize catches, but Ray Wilson of this city prefers Rock river. Yesterday afternoon while fishing from the north bank in front of the high school, Wilson landed the finest specimen of wall-eye pike that has been taken from Rock river in many months, his prize catch weighing nine and one-half pounds.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 13.—(The Special News Service)—Well, "our bums" (spoken with affection) have become "dem bums" again and today probably will decide which will be permanent. Ford Frick must have collected a few tips from a good fight referee on how to go about that speech he made to the managers and the jumps before the game. The crowds don't make it look as if St. Louis fans were getting very excited about it all, but maybe they're just saving up their dough to buy World Series tickets. With Keller and Rolfe out, the Yanks won't have such a breeze against the National Leaguers as their supporters had been expecting. If the Cards win the pennant, maybe they'll decide to call the whole thing off and let the medicos play the series. The Yanks' list includes Joe DiMaggio (sore wrist), Red Ruffing (stiff neck), Bill Dickey (bruised instep) and Buddy Roser (dizzy spells). The Cards don't expect to have Enos Slaughter or Terry Moore back. While the National Leaguers were announcing they'd hold a meeting to decide about a playoff in case of a tie, the Yanks were announcing that all the World Series box seats had been sold. That's the difference between the leagues.

Today's Guest Star
Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News: "Some football coaches are balking on the new system of numbering their men. They're the kind of fellows who think they're doing the world a favor by living in it."

One Minute Sports Page
Looking ahead to a second shot at Joe Louis next spring, Billy Conn is making person-to-person calls from Pittsburgh to the Bomber's Greenwood Lake training base every few days to see if Joe is doing all right. Billy calls Louis "Corporal" and to Joe, Conn is "movie actor". Handout from Hardin-Simmons U. about D. W. Brantley, who likes to kick barefoot, says: "On kickoffs, his boots go 50 and 60 yards, and occasionally over the goal posts on the fly." But where does the ball go, cowboy?

Serious Note
George Hudson, who is teaching Frank Kovacs to use a "cosmic" punch in tennis, predicts that Lou Novak's "cosmic" punch will lick Europe.

Joe Louis... And he insists cosmic isn't comic at all. Hudson claims he and Nova are working on the same scientific theory, which can be boiled down (as we get it) to what the boys call getting everything you've got into it, plus a bit of never letting yourself get caught off balance. Anyway Hudson, who used to do a little boxing himself, says Lou throws a lot of punches with all his weight behind him and they travel straight to the point he's aiming for.

WHIRLAWAY RUNS IN NARRAGANSETT SPECIAL

Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 13.—(AP)

Warren Wright's Whirlaway, the whacky wonder of horsemanship, will answer the bugler's call in the $25,000 added Narragansett Special today with third place in all-time winnings the chestnut champion's reward if he wins.

There didn't seem much to worry about Whirlaway, either, for only three horses were entered against the bushy-tailed son of Blenheim 2nd over the mile and three-sixteenths distance.

The Kentucky Derby and triple-title champ could move from sixth to third among the great money winners, for the rich state would boost the three-year-old wonder to a point only behind Seabiscuit and Sun Beau.

Any trouble Whirlaway might encounter was expected to come from another three-year-old, War Relic, which lost to Whirl by a nose in the widely-discussed handicap at Saratoga recently.

Whirlaway's first appearance of the year in New England was expected to attract a crowd of between 45,000 and 50,000.

With almost as much beef as you'd find in a cold storage locker plant, the brawny gridmen from Oregon high school left the Dixon Ducks in a weak, saltless stew here last night in the opening football game of the season. The disastrous defeat of the Ducks by a score of 13 to 6, was hardly suited to the taste of the Dixon fans.

Coach C. B. Lindell's pre-game prediction that "if the Oregon lads are heavy, we are sunk", came true and it wasn't until it was too late that the locals got "hep" to themselves and opened with an aerial attack, but the pigskin diving-bombing was as wild as a rudderless airplane.

Coach Arthur Driver's boys combined cleverness with team co-ordination and demonstrated that a small team (in number) often clicks better than a large squad of boys all of whom may develop later but who don't have the precision of unity.

Pass Attacks
On the ground, the two teams were nearly on a par, but on a couple of masterful pass attacks the Oregon boys won their laurels. Of eight passes attempted, Coach Driver's men completed four for a total of 109 yards. Dixon tried 18, made six and gained 37 yards.

Dixon's team in the opening game looked as if it might be composed of too many players who haven't yet found their way around but who may deliver when they get more experience. Offensively Dixon's line was weak as pink tea but defensively played a fairly fast game.

Oregon made its two touchdowns and conversion in the second period and after the half the Dixon boys (probably profiting from an intermission lecture) came into the game with renewed vigor and fire. The Ducks showed flashes for good playing—for instance on the drive from their own 40 to the Oregon goal in the last minutes of the third quarter and the opening plays of the fourth.

It was Quilhot who finally pushed through center for the touchdown and Weaver made the extra point with a boot between the uprights. Blanchard scored Oregon's 13 points on pass reception. Each time the Dixon defense was sucked in by smart Oregon tactics.

Following the opening kickoff the Oregon visitors took the ball on the 25 yard line and on a succession of line plays failed to make first down. Freed was forced to punt and the Ducks took the ball on their own 18. Schnake was smeared for a loss of 5 yards on the first play and Egler's spinner through the line was good for eight yards. On third Egler punted to Freed who was dropped on the 45-yard stripe.

Through Center

Bocker went through center for five yards to the mid-stripe. Freed was stopped for no gain. Fruin went through left tackle for four yards and Freed punted to the Dixon 21. Schnake lost a yard on an attempted left end romp and Dixon was penalized for offensive holding. A quarterback sneak by Van Meter netted five yards before Egler booted the pigskin to Freed who was finally dropped by Shank on the Oregon 38.

Freed's pass to Blanchard failed and attempted pass over the line by Becker was smothered. Freed cut back through center for five yards before he punted to the Dixon where Van Meter downed the ball.

On the first down Dixon was penalized for backfield in motion and Egler's pass over the line to Knack failed. A reverse, from Egler to Schnake, netted a yard and Egler's long punt was downed on the Oregon 22.

Fruin's left end run was good for about two yards and Basler lost a yard on a right end run. Freed punted to Van Meter and he was down without a return on the Oregon 46. The quarter ended with each team scoreless and neither had made a first down.

Second Quarter
In the second quarter Dixon picked up a first down when Jonty bounded through left guard and tackle for 5 yards and Egler's pass to Jonty was good to the 35. The Ducks seemed to be coming to life when a reverse, from Van Meter to Jonty netted four yards and then the whole scheme fizzled when two passes failed and Egler's spinner through center was not quite a first down.

Oregon took the ball and on a center plunge by Bocker and a line drive by Freed, the Hawks made a first down to the 80-yard line.

A reverse from Freed to Bocker netted five yards and Basler went through left guard for four more. Bocker went to the mid-stripe for a first down on a center plunge. Bocker's attempted pass was smothered and Freed completed a heave to Bocker on the Dixon 45. Bocker tried the right side of his line but picked up only a yard and Freed was forced to punt to Van Meter who took it on the Dixon 8 and rushed to the 19 before he was smothered.

Van Meter lost three yards on an attempted left end run and Egler booted a beauty to Freed who was downed after a four-yard return on the mid-stripe. From here—a distance of 50 yards—the Driver-men clicked for a touchdown on the first play when Bocker heaved a pass to Blanchard who took it on the 25-yard line and raced half the distance to the goal. Weyrauch tried a line plunge for the extra point but the Dixon line smothered him. Score—Oregon 6; Dixon 0.

After the kickoff the Ducks took the ball on the 15-yard line. Egler went through center for a couple of yards and a quarterback sneak failed. He booted the ball to Freed who returned seven yards to midfield.

Battle for Shaughnessy Playoff Honors to Be Resumed Sunday Eve

(By The Associated Press)

The battle for the Shaughnessy playoff honors in the Three-Eye League will be resumed Sunday night, the Cedar Rapids Raiders invading Decatur to meet the Commies.

The two teams will play two games there before moving on to Cedar Rapids for the remainder of the series, three out of five.

Decatur qualified for the finals the hard way, winning three from Evansville after losing the first two. The Commies took the decisive game last night, 2 to 1, although the Bees outthrew them by 12 to 5.

Lou Scofield doubled in the second and scored on Lloyd Hopkins' single. In the sixth Harry Schmiel reached first on a force play, stole second and scored on Jake Suder's double. Decatur had two pitchers in the lineup in addition to Moundsman Bud Beverly. Hopkins subbed for the ailing third baseman and Joe Davis for a crippled left fielder.

Cedar Rapids, which finished second behind Evansville in the regular season, scored a 6 to 0 shutout over Springfield behind Bob Haas' seven-hit pitching. Ralph Liff and Jim Wagener yielded 10 hits to the Raiders, who sewed up the game with two runs in the seventh and then pushed across three more in the eighth.

The series went four games, Springfield winning its lone decision Thursday night.

His pass over the line to Shank was no good and Quilhot went through the line to the Dixon 31. Egler tried a spinner on fourth down and failed to make any gain.

Freed picked up a yard for Oregon on a line drive and Loftus almost intercepted Bocker's pass. Bocker tried again and this time Loftus did intercept the ball on his own 15 and raced for a long sweep to the Dixon 47 before he was halted. Jonty lost a yard on the first play and Egler's pass juggled off Shank's finger tips. Jonty went through the left side of the line to the mid-stripe. Egler punted to Basler who lateraled to Freed who was dropped on the Oregon 29.

Oregon showed plenty of pep and counted two first downs in a row, one when Dixon was penalized for roughing and another when Bocker went to the Dixon 45 on a right end run and then Freed made it first down through left guard and tackle to the Dixon 38.

Pass Is Smothered
Basler picked up a couple of yards, Bocker added two more. Freed was stopped for no gain and on fourth down Bocker's pass was smothered.

On their own 40 the Ducks counted a first down on the first play when Egler's pass to Jonty was good to mid-field. Starting the final quarter, the Ducks made another first down when Jonty picked up eight yards on a left end run and Egler's pass to Jonty was good to the Oregon 39.

Egler made a second first down on a left end sweep to the Oregon 21, the only first down the Ducks made on rushing. Egler tried four passes in a row, two of which were good—one to Van Meter to the Oregon 16 and another to Van Meter to the 9.

Egler went around left end to the 4 and Jonty went through the left side of the line to the two before Quilhot plunged straight through center for the touchdown. Weaver's boot for the extra point was good.

After the kick off the Oregon lads failed to pick up a first down and on the punt Dixon took the ball on its own 36. Jonty made two yards around left end and Egler's pass was intercepted by Basler who was stopped on the Oregon 47.

Again Oregon's line drives failed and Freed punted to Jonty who was dropped in his tracks on the Ducks' 39.

Nearly Intercepted
A reverse, Loftus to Egler and a pass by the latter was nearly intercepted. Another Egler pass went wild and a third, to Jonty, was dropped. Dixon was penalized for being offside on a disputed play which some Dixon supporters thought was roughing of Punter Egler. On the fourth down play again Egler punted to Basler who was dropped on the Oregon 35.

Freed picked up three yards through right guard and tackle. Fruin went a yard around left end and Freed's fumble was recovered by Dixon when the whole line seemed to fall on the ball.

Egler's last minute pass to Shank bounded off the latter's fingertips and was intercepted by Freed who went to the Oregon 30 before he was dropped. On the first play of the down—and he last of the game, Freed failed to make any gain.

Dixon substitutions: Meinke, Marshall, Cooley, Ottinger, Stevens, Hansen, Gardner, Reilly.

The little acorns that sometimes grow into mighty oaks if they aren't stunted early in their grid careers, turned in a masterful performance here last night as the Dixon underclassmen opened the 1941 season with a 20 to 6 victory over the Oregon "B" team.

Coach Marvin Winger's boys showed surprising techniques for so early in the season and marched to the Oregon goal three times.

Dixon scored first in the initial quarter when a series of line plunges carried the locals to the Oregon 10 from where Cooper went around left end to cross the goal. Frey punted to chalk up the extra point.

In the second period Oregon scored its only touchdown after a series of three first downs from mid field to the one yard line from where Hiscox went through right guard and tackle for the score.

In the third period a triple reverse well executed gave the Ducks another score. The play was from Frey to Cramer to Cooper on the Oregon 44 and the later carried the ball across. Frey's pass to Goff was no good for the extra point.

In the last period the Winger-men scored again when Osowski took the ball on a clever right end run and romped about 50 yards to the goal.

Purdue Mentor Likes Looks of His 1941 Team

Chicago, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Little Mal Elward, brusque Irish coach of the Purdue Boilermakers, never would qualify as a blues singer, at which some of his contemporaries are most adept.

WIN OPENER WITH OREGON

"I never was much good at singing the blues," admitted the Purdue mentor as he watched his speedy squad run through Friday's drills. "I realize that our expectations may be premature and that, after all, coaches hesitate to stick out their necks when anything can, and does, happen in football."

"But Purdue does have a fine looking bunch of boys who may surprise several opponents. I'd rather say as much now as tell you in December that I knew it all the time and wouldn't admit it."

The Boilermakers opened practice Wednesday with a scrimmage and have scrimmaged each day since. Elward said he told the boys to report ready for hard work. The team opens at home against Red Sanders' Vanderbilt university eleven Sept. 27.

Dave Schreiner, junior Wisconsin end, is a standout among the pass receivers on Harry Stuhldreher's squad. Tom Farris and Frankie Granitz rate best among the Badger tossers on the basis of early drills.

The Iowa Hawkeyes, realizing many of their rivals may overpower them, are working diligently on an overhead attack. Tom Farmer and Jim Youell did most of the passing yesterday as Eddie Anderson declared the aerials were being prepared for the Hawks' opener with Drake Sept. 27.

Indiana is giving sophomores every chance to make the first string. Three newcomers—Right Halfback Charles Jacoby and Tackles Bob Zimny and Ed Bell—worked with the varsity yesterday. The Minnesota regulars romped to eight touchdowns on the reserves yesterday in the first scrimmage. Bruce Smith and Bill Daley looked almost unstoppable in the impressive drill.

Without a star like Tommy Harmon to fall back on, Michigan is drilling for a more varied offensive this season, liberally sprinkled with deception and passes. Coach Paul Brown, the exacting new coach of the Buckeyes, said last night he was "very well satisfied" with the first three days of work.

The Illinois varsity scored two quick touchdowns on the reserves in Bob Zuppke's first scrimmage yesterday. Northwestern's early drills have been featured by the right halfback dogfight between two seniors, Capt. Floyd Chambers and Ike Keppord. They shared the post almost equally last season.

Frank Leahy, Notre Dame coach, shoved Bob Hargrave back to the second team to make room at quarterback for Harry Wright, junior fullback. Another shift sent George Murphy to right end on the varsity in place of Johnny Kovatch.

Mancuso ruined the whole thing by hitting a liner to center. A single under ordinary circumstances, it went past Outfielder Pete Reiser to the wall and Gus pumped his aged legs all the way to third.

Pollet then singled to score his battery mate. The Dodgers went ahead with three runs in the fifth inning in which two misplays abetted a base on balls to Billy Herman and singles by Peevée Reese, Joe Medwick, and Dolph Camilli.

The Cards stormed to victory in the seventh on Padgett's walk, Crabtree's long drive to the edge of the pavilion roof for a triple and Crespi's fly which Medwick took on the run and was in no position to head off Crabtree at the plate.

Pet Superstitions of Aviators Theme of Flier, Now Dead

Battling Airmen Take Dolls, Sox on Their Flights for Luck

New York.—(The Special News Service)—The one thing that Kenneth B. Collings, feared most was water.

The veteran American aviator was lost at sea in May, en route in a bomber to fly for Britain. Collings left as his legacy to the flying fraternity a last word on aerial superstitions, which was: "As a veteran superstitio, I think I'll continue to spit on the tail of a new airplane before I fly it. Just in case."

Collings, who flew with the marines in the World War, barnstormed across America, piloted Pan American planes and traveled the world in aviation, traced some aviator's superstitions in an article published posthumously in "Flying and Popular Aviation".

Of the present war, he said: "While superior strategy may determine the outcome of the war, when it comes to the question of who survives an individual dogfight, there's no use arguing; luck plays a big part."

One superstition carried over from the last war into this one, he reported, is the good-luck attached to the left silk stocking of a pilot's sweetheart.

"Early French and Belgian pilots wore them as mufflers; the British commonly cut them into skull caps. All believed implicitly that they were instrumental in warding off enemy bullets."

Shy at Photographs
 "When the war broke out," Collings continued, "English Hurricane pilots at Hendon and German Stuka flyers from Tempelhof were sharing with Steve Reich and Swane Taylor and a host of other Americans the belief that it is sheer suicide to be photographed in front of an airplane just before

Future is Foretold For Only Fifty Cents

Ever since the Biblical witch of Endor, mankind has sought to peer into the future, and according to the Illinois Writers' Project, W. P. A. fortune telling, or clairvoyance, was advertised widely in 1893 in southern Illinois.

One newspaper carried a column of advertisements of which the following is typical: "CLAIRVOYANT—Mme. .... born with a veil. May be seen at the Hotel Leland on all questions about business; her power leaves nothing hidden. Satisfied patrons the best advertisement. Price 50c."

Perhaps another item in the same issue of that newspaper was significant. Here it is: "The new patrol wagon was taken out of the shop this morning and placed in the station in the city hall. It is a very handsome affair."

We left our bivouac area near Blevins, Ark. Sunday evening at 10 o'clock and the company marched to a new position near Prescott. Here outposts were set up and the men rested and awaited orders. Finally about 2 p. m. Monday the enemy was contacted and again we encountered superior fire power. "A" company was held in reserve but was forced to withdraw continually all afternoon and night. Defensive positions were set up all along the line of retreat but we were continually driven back. We drew out of range and found cover in a dense woods.

Rested again until 7 o'clock Wednesday morning and then marched through Prescott and entered seven miles southwest of town. Rode four miles and deployed in a dense marshy woods until 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Moved from this area in approach march formation on foot eight miles and formed motorized combat patrols. The enemy was contacted a gain but this time we were tricked. Parts of the 27th division, Red forces, using blue arm bands, penetrated our lines and encircled the 1st battalion on a hill. During the night the 2nd platoon of "A" company, the only unit not annihilated that night, joined the 130th infantry on the left flank of the 33rd division and regained fire superiority. During this battle, the 2nd platoon, with other supporting units captured a colonel of the fighting 69th and many other officers and men. This phase of the battle was a distinct victory for the Blues and compensates a little because of the capture of Lt. Col. Sherwood Dixon, 2nd battalion commander.

This battle ended at 9 o'clock Thursday morning and we moved into an area of pine woods 19 miles southwest of Prescott. We laid over here for five days over Labor Day. This time the boys had a chance to rest and were given permission to get out and see the sights.

We entrucked at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 2 and moved that night at 6 o'clock. Rode in black-out for 45 miles to bivouac near Emerson, Ark., three miles north of the Louisiana line. The next morning we walked in approach march formation over into Louisiana and entrucked 10 miles from the line of departure. In this shuttle movement the troops were brought to a new area near Hope, La. Again we were shuttled to a new bivouac about 30 miles from Hope. Camp was established at dark and the men were free for the week end.

The situation became tactical at 10 p. m. Sunday and the war was on again. Makes it mighty handy doesn't it? Just turn it off or on at our convenience. This time we moved in trucks with blackout lights to set up defense along a road against an expected tank attack. Outposts were established and an all night vigil was kept but the attack never came. Apparently our advance units were successful in destroying a bridge. We held our positions along the road all night and all the next day but nothing happened until we were getting ready to march away. Something very pleasant and unexpected happened, however, during this problem. We were very near farm houses and as daylight came we were invited in for breakfast. The people of Louisiana are even more friendly and interested in the games than we had imagined. When noon came they came out to our posts and informed us that dinner was ready. Surprised but hungry we sat down to fried chicken, mashed potatoes, hot biscuits and cornbread, black-eyed peas, green beans, pickles, deep dish apple pie and a three-layer cake. We'll probably throw rocks at those cooks of ours, but that's alright we've felt like doing that for some time.

The morale of the army had a holiday for a while from the kicking around it has been getting.

Narrow Sectionalism and Prejudice Find No Place in Kingdom of God

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance
Text: Revelation 7:9-17

From the Book of Revelation our lesson presents one of the most striking and beautiful passages to set before us the vision of the eternal God as man's source of help in time of persecution and trial.

Out of the world of harried and bitterly persecuted Christians the writer of the Book of Revelation beholds a vision in striking contrast. The very nature of the passage ought to exaltize in our minds the extent to which this is a vision. Yet we should remember that in this imaginary form it presents real and vital truth and the assurance of a great triumph of all that is pure and true and holy.

If we try to put the vision into the figures and terms that the prosaic western mind is inclined to conjure up when we read the Bible, we are led into difficulties. We can hardly portray in that matter of fact way this "great multitude which no man could number." What we do want to grasp in this vision is the fact that the writer himself was dealing with something the immensity of which he could hardly grasp. Let us look at the meaning of the vision in some detail.

First, the company of the faithful in this ultimate triumph of right was in the vision of a great multitude. That in itself is comforting—to know the Gospel was not for a few but directed toward all men, so the Gospel triumph is not limited in its nature.

It is a good thought for fearful souls when they feel that the company of the faithful is not by any means a small one. Napoleon once said, with his cynical disregard of right, that God is on the side of the great battalions. Na-

Judge Wheat Gives Important Ruling in Freeport Court

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Attorneys said today that hundreds of personal injury suits filed in Illinois courts against out-of-state motorists would be voided if a decision by Circuit Judge Harry E. Wheat of Freeport is sustained in higher courts.

Judge Wheat ruled that the non-resident motorists act of 1929, under which suits could be started by serving the secretary of state when residents of other states are involved, was repealed by implication when the Illinois civil practice act was passed in 1933.

The judge held that the civil practice act made no provision for obtaining such service. If sustained upon appeal, the legislature would have to adopt a corrective amendment.

The ruling was made in a case growing out of an automobile accident near Freeport Aug. 29, 1940. Mrs. Hazel Stine of Freeport sued Dr. Kenneth Brinkhaus of Iowa City, Ia., and William McTaggart of Elkader, Ia.
